

ENVIRONMENTAL BIOSAFETY RESEARCH
An interdisciplinary Journal
for Research on GMOs and the Environment

Editor-in-Chief: Bao-Rong Lu

The results of research related to science-based risk assessment of genetically modified organisms (GMOs) are dispersed through an extremely broad range of fields and journals. This interdisciplinary feature makes GMO biosafety research a particularly interesting intellectual topic, but it is difficult to follow new developments across this broad and actively growing domain. The purpose of the journal is to fill this gap in scientific communication.
